ROTE SPOKES

President C.R. was pleased with the turn-out for our weekly meeting on Monday, July 31st. Fritz Dahl was an invited guest and we hope that Fritz will become a permanent member of our club.

Based on Warren's lecture, Heber and Bill gave us a lesson in the art of hunting and digging for clams. From their enthusiastic actions it would seem that they learned their lesson well. It is regrettable that after all their efforts, all they came up with was an old handkerchief.

Howard read a letter purported to be from the proprietress of Crandall Lodge in Waterton, wherein she expresses regret that because of his unbecoming behavior she had found it necessary to evict one of the members of our club from his lodgings. It was suggested that Frank Taylor was well qualified to talk on this subject. C.R. gave him three minutes to outline to the Club how a Rotarian should behave while away from home. After his somewhat ambiguous address members were puzzled as to whether it was Myron Holmes or Frank who got ousted. Your reporter, true to his profession, knows all the lurid details, but in the interests of harmony in the Club refuses to divulge the guilty party's name.

A scheme was proposed which, if implemented, will raise some funds for the Club and at the same time help beautify our town. It is suggested that the Club arrange purchase of several thousand bulbs; tulip, daffodil etc. and set aside a day for the sale of these to interested parties. If he plan is followed through, a Rotarian will probably be contacting you in the near future for your advance order. Watch out for him and plan to buy your fall planting bulbs from the Rotary Club.

Wednesday afternoon the Rotary Clubs from Lethbridge, Cardston, Raymond, Claresholm and High River gathered at the Hunter Bros. Ranch, west of Macleod, for a giant barbecue. Jim Greep and party and Lincoln Wood and party were the only ones attending from Raymond. You poor unfortunates who missed this affair are to be pitied. The refreshments donated by your friend and mine, Emil Sick, were ice cold; and oh! that barbecued beef, all 300 pounds of it — was it ever delicious! You fellows who gave all this up for the Kirkwood Golf Exhibition will be especially sad when you learn it didn't cost a cent. Plans are under way to make this an annual affair. If they do, they have one steady customer that I know of.

All Must Rotarize

The hardest work some men do in Rotary is manipulate a knife and fork. They seem to feel that they are participating when they do that, then sit back and smugly say "let George do it". There is still work for every Rotarian in the world to do. "Service above self" applies to you as well as the other fellow. Rotary must be made to mean something to each community. When a person hears the word Rotary or sees it in print, it must mean something to that person.

High Work

We have a trio of brave men in town — brave in an extraordinary sense. These men, Raymond Cross whose home is in Pine Grove, W. Virginia, Frank Church from North Carolina and Caspar Schnieder from Aberdeen, Washington, are now busily engaged in the somewhat "romantic" job of repairing and painting the Sugar Factory smoke-stack. Romantic in the sense that many a young heart has now made this his life's ambition. (Doug Heggie and I have passed the young heart stage.) These men, employed by the Rust Engineering Co. Ltd. of Montreal (head office in Pittsburg) have been working here since the 10th of July and expect to have the job completed by the end of this month. In talking to Mr. Cross we found that he takes his job in a very matter-of-fact attitude and speaks of the 225 ft. stack with respect but not awe. Accidents are few and far between, due to the men realizing the risk and making allowances for it. Mr. Church has been in the business for about 20 years but even with a record like that we intend to keep something more substantial under us than the scaffolding used by these men — no matter how interesting and secure it sounds.

Gordon Robinson suffered severe facial injuries recently when he was struck by a horse while working in the hay field at the Robinson farm.

Our First

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Here, at last, is that news item from the Canadian Legion which I promised at least two issues ago.

The heat or the lull of the summer months, or both, have certainly taken their toll on Legion activities. We decided to dispense with our dinner meeting during the hot months of July and August and give our worthy Ladies Auxiliary a break. As a result our July meeting was an informal gathering of five or six of the old reliable members. Much discussion but little else. The executive is anxious to have a large turnout for our August meeting, August 9th, as we must start now to plan our winter activities and

Wonder Who He Is

A 15-year-old Raymond boy today refused to go to work for the C.P.R. cutting weeds along irrigation canal banks for $4.50 per day. "Nothing doing, for $4.50 per day you can do your own work," he told a C.P.R. official. The official told the Herald things must be "getting serious" when a 15-year-old lad will not work for that price.

The above article was taken from the "Thirty Years Ago" section of the Lethbridge Herald and we wonder if that man is still around or if any-one knows who he was. To say the least he was a very independent person.

Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic Here
August 10

Plasma, so effective in the treatment of shock as in the case of severe burns, is stored in every hospital in Alberta by the Canadian Red Cross. It is then available for immediate use in times of emergency. Plasma is processed from the serum part of blood and shown above a member of the Canadian Red Cross Transfusion Service in Calgary is seen separating the serum from the blood cells. This work is carried out under most sterile conditions in a room illuminated by ultra violet light which kills any bacteria in the air. This light is also injurious to the eyes and a special mask must be worn by the operator. All blood not used within twenty-four hours after the date it is collected is made into plasma, thereby avoiding any waste.

Corrections

Mistakes, we suppose, were plentiful in last week's paper but there are two that we would like to bring to your attention for correction.

The first is the one about the party and weiner roast sponsored by the Fourth Ward — this is a Ward affair and not open to all. We're extra sorry cause this "do" has all the ear-marks of a big one.

The second correction is for putting the wrong head on the right story. We had a page one article about the show under the head for a story about too much heat. For these, and others, we are sorry.

The 1950 Lions International Convention was the largest convention held in Chicago this year, with greater attendance than any other service club gathering in history — even larger than the record breaking 1949 Lions Convention in New York City.

This is typical of the phenomenal growth of Lions International — very close to 800 new clubs in the fiscal year ended June 30. There are now more than 8,000 Lions Clubs and more than 400,000 members — by far the world's largest and fastest growing service club organization, and the most active of all such groups in its sponsorship of club projects for community, nation and the world.

"Be Friends"

Harold C. Petry of Carizzo Springs, Tex., new president of Lions International, urged members from 28 nations to put on an aggressive activity to make friends with their neighbors across their borders.

He addressed the Lions in the Chicago Stadium, after he was elevated from the office of International first vice president at the Club's 33rd annual convention.

He declared by so doing "we shall comply with the first of our Lions Club objectives, to create and foster a spirit of generous consideration among the peoples of the world." He also urged every Lion to subscribe wholeheartedly to the principles of the United Nations, stating that they are the same as those of the Lions.

Petry was unopposed for president as were Harold P. Nutter for first vice president and Edgar M. Elbert for second vice president. The new third vice president is S. A. Dodge.

There are 12 new directors on the Lions International Board, eight from the United States and four from other countries. Canada has not a representative on the Board as yet.

Social Highlights

The feature event in the social whirl was the crowning of the Lions Queen at the Chicago Stadium. She is 21-year-old Jeanette Anne Hills from Ruston, La. The new Queen is a brown-eyed beauty with light brown hair. She is a music student at a Louisiana college and has a radio program of her own. Her ambition is to be a musical comedy star.

She is an identical twin and her sister is a camp counselor.

In a singing contest held in connection with the convention, a quartet from Reno, Nev., Lions Club won the grand prize of $500.

To list all the social events would be impossible so suffice it to say that the Lions Convention was wonderful.

The Church Softball League has reached the play-off stage with Bonnyview and the Third Ward vying for top spot in this section. The boys from the south defeated Welling two games straight, 8 to 6 and 12 to 2, to win the right to play-off against the Third Ward team who received a bye in the draw.

Bonnyview won the first game of the 3-out-3 series the other night and the next game is scheduled for Friday night and should be a good one.

The winner of this series will play off against the winner of the Cardston Fourth Ward - Barnwell series.

We are happy to print a prize-winning poem written by a young lady who attended the local High School last year, Delores Smith. This poem was awarded the first prize in the Class B - Poetry Section of the 1949-50 Creative Writing Competition for Schools sponsored by the I.O.D.E. and U. of A. in the Banff School of Fine Arts. Miss Smith recently came to Canada from Edinburgh, Scotland. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Larson.

The Haven

The skirl o' the pipes was heard afar
 And louder and clearer they grew
 And round the bend the pipers marched
 All of them Scotsmen true.

First the Camerons came marching
 With a swagger and sway o' the kilt
 Playing a tune to cheer you up
 With a gay and happy lilt.

Next there came MacPhersons
 Playing a sadder air
 They played MacPherson's last farewell
 And made my heart feel sair.

One after the other the clans marched on
 Each in a different way
 And o'er the hills they marched again
 Where all their dead men lay.

These were the things I dreamt of
 As into the sea I peer
 Wondering if ever again
 The skirl o' the pipes I'd hear.

From this I came to the prairies
 With its vast wide open plains
 I came to find a haven here
 And all my life remain.

When first I saw the prairies
 The day was bleak and grey
 It seemed it matched my thoughts
 In every kind of way.

But now I see the green fields
 And the crops beginning to grow
 And I'm glad I came to Canada
 And I'll be happy here I know.

The Psychology Club met on Wednesday evening with President Mrs. Delecta Sommerfeldt in charge and Mrs. Dorothy Dahl reading the minutes. Mrs. Sommerfeldt then very capably presented the lesson, taken from the Sunday School leaflet which the club is now studying. Guests present were Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Idale Kenny and Mrs. Donna Meldrum.

A new outbreak of polio has been reported across the United States. The number of polio cases so far this year, Basil O'Connor, pres. of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, reports, is slightly above the number in the same period last year, when the U.S. had an all-time high of 42,375 new polio patients. More than $9 million dollars contributed to the March of Dimes is being used at "an unprecedented rate" to combat a threatened new epidemic.

Relatives from Magrath called at the Bobbie Heggle and Lawrence Bacon homes on Wednesday. They were Freeman Cook, Mrs. Leo Cook and daughter Kay and Roxie Cook. Roxie has just returned from Boston Mass. where she studied psychiatry and Chicago where she did field work in this study. Prior to going to Boston she studied at McGill University in Montreal. She returned to Alberta to take up her duties at the Mental Hospital at Ponoka but intends to return to New York City to practice in the future. While in Chicago she had the pleasure of visiting her mother's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rebalkin had as their Sunday dinner guests, Mike's sister and her husband Mr. and Mrs. Art Leoni of Lethbridge. Master Ronald Rebalkin celebrated his second birthday by the visit.

For Parents Only

By Nancy Cleaver

Don't Spoil Your Child

"Janey is certainly a spoiled child! She's a perfect nuisance to have around!"

Mother's dread having their children called "spoiled". They will usually stoutly defend their own youngsters. "Janey's not spoiled!" or "You're not being fair to Tom! He's a good boy at home!"

One person's idea of "spoiledness" may be quite different from another's. People with high standards of behavior; people who have no understanding of what to expect of a child at different age levels; people who just don't like children, are all apt to be much too hasty in labelling a child as "spoiled".

The Symptoms

What are some of the symptoms of a "spoiled" child? A spoiled child is one who is not developing in a normal way. He is helpless, unhappy, inclined to be a 'showoff' and is selfish.

John starts to school and on the first rainy day, he makes no effort to struggle into his raincoat, cap and rubbers. Mother always dresses him in bad weather, so why shouldn't teacher do it too? John's mother has been "spoiling" him by not teaching him to look after himself. A mother must always encourage a child, gradually, to become independent of adult assistance in dressing and other activities.

Mary is an only child and mother is her constant companion. She whines when mother has to be away from home. Unfortunately, since she was small she has never played alone very much. If mother puts Mary on her tricycle on a sunny morning, Mary coaxes mother to go around the block with her and not go in the house. If Mary is to grow as she should, she must learn to amuse herself and play happily alone.

Mother is having a few friends in to afternoon tea. June comes down from her afternoon nap and demands the company's attention by dancing noisily through the rooms. Mother attempts to get June to play outdoors but June makes a great fuss. She wants to "show off" to the visitors.

Mother should give June a welcome, introduce her to her friends. June should be allowed to pass the cookies or have some small part in the entertainment of the guests. If she feels wanted she will not crave to be an exhibitionist.

Loving Relations

John is an only child and loving relations have showered him with toys. He rebels against having to share his playthings with other children.

Teddy has been quite ill but now he is getting better. But during the convalescing period, Teddy continues to demand Mother's continual presence in his room. He doesn't want to share her with the other members of the family.

Every child is naturally self-centered. But in special situations, where there is only one child in the home, or where a youngster has been sick, parents must make special effort to help a child learn to outgrow egotism. The willingness to share and take turns marks a child who is not spoiled.

The spoiled child is to be pitied rather than blamed. He is apt to grow up to be a dependent, discontented selfish adult who must have the centre of the stage. While he is little and cute, allowances may be made for his actions, but once he is mature; no one wants a spoiled grown-up around.

Junior is not so apt to be spoiled if there are several children in the family and if mother has some hobby or interest outside her home. Every youngster tries his parent's patience and puzzles them at times; but if mother and dad recognize the marks of a spoiled child and try to remedy the underlying causes, then their youngster is not likely to grow into a spoiled adult. It's no kindness to over-indulge your child — to do so may mark him as a "spoiled child".

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lybbert and family from Moses Lake, Wash., stopped here overnight to visit friends and relatives this week.

Did you know that a shipment of the new "Azurite" dinnerware is on display at STONE'S? See it this week while the selection is complete.

Jolayne Carlson of Cardston is visiting with her aunt Mrs. Fanny Litchfield.

By now everyone has heard of and seen the caravan of young people from Union Stake in Oregon so we won't dwell too long on their visit.

David Allred, a local product who left here 24 years ago, to seek and find a degree of fame and fortune, was one of the supervisors of the 140 persons who came to Canada to visit the Cardston Temple. The young folks were week-end guests here and from all reports had a wonderful time, being feted at dances, parties and all.

On Sunday night Mrs. Fanny Walker sponsored a fireside in honor of the visitors.

The young Americans, under the direction of David Allred provided a varied and interesting program. The highlight of the program, according to some was the duet by the girls who sang "The Maple Leaf". In singing this song they changed words like "our" to "your" etc. This was quite a tribute to the Canadians.

President and Mrs. Walker also spoke.

Attendance at this fireside was 677.

The Third Ward played host to the other three Wards on Tuesday at the open air pavilion. A very interesting program, with Reid Zemp as M.C., was thoroughly enjoyed. The program consisted of a vocal solo by Laurie Harker, Piano Duet - Marolyn Taylor and Shirley Allen, Saxophone Solo - Delbert Oler, Skit - Gary Salmon and Jo Stevenson, Vocal Trio - Gen Hawkins, Melba and Bill Mehew, Violin Solo - Robert Holmes, Trio - Gen, Evelyn and Laura, Skit - Kathaleen Taylor and Betty Hamilton.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing with a good turnout from all Wards.

Here and There

Heywood Brown, a notoriously careless dresser, was leaving a New York theatre after the opening of a play when he met the author in the lobby. The latter took one look at Brown's rumpled suit and protested: "That's a fine way to dress for my opening. Your suit looks as if it had been slept in."

Brown nodded. "You're right. I just woke up."

What Rotary Brings You

Rotary brings you, once a week, into close contact with a cross section of the community's civic life.

Rotary gives you the viewpoint of many men, leaders in businesses and professions of every description.

Rotary gives you opportunities to be of helpful service to others and in what, after all, is found great satisfaction?

Rotary means good fellowship of the kind stimulated by friendship.

Rotary increases your knowledge of your fellowmen, and by knowledge of others, you come to know yourself better.

Rotary takes your mind off yourself, and that's a good thing, isn't it?

Hoe-down reels and cowboy tunes are given a lively once-over every Tuesday and Thursday (CBX at 4:45 p.m.) when the Western Five entertain. In the group from left to right are Cammie Howard, arranger, conductor and clarinetist; Marcel Lafortune, bass fiddler; George Appleby, who plays trumpet and mellophone; Oral Scheer, vocalist; Woody Hill, guitar player; and George Cloutier, violinist.

A gathering of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Piepgrass was held on Tuesday at Waterton. It was impossible for all members to be present at one time but most of them were there at one time or another. Out-of-town visitors were Lyle and LeGrande with their wives and families from Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mitten and daughters Lois and Marva from Kalspel, Mont. Little Joan Rebalkin had the distinction of being the only great grandchild at the gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Price of Taber were visitors here on Monday.

then of course, there will be an election and a resumption of dinner meetings in September which will take considerable planning.

Oh yes, you asked about July 1st. Our raffle this year didn't receive the public support that it did last year. A committee worked hard and we owe them thanks for making it the success that it was. I guess the public is ticked to death and in spite of our worthy cause, they couldn't see their way clear to buy another ticket. I suppose you noticed that there were no veterans on parade as there have been in past years. Too many veterans accepted other jobs and the three or four who did turn up for the parade decided not to enter. Some of the watching public missed us though as I was told after the whole affair was over.

You know, I fell into conversation with a friend (non-veteran) the other night and I happened to mention what a small town in central Alberta was doing for its returned men. He immediately took me to task and told me how well the government was treating us and how much better off many of the veterans were for having been in the services, concluded by saying that veterans had received all and more than they had coming to them. I could not deny the fact that the government has treated us very well. The Canadian Rehabilitation program is second to none. That is the way in which the Government shows its appreciation for what was accomplished from 1939 to 1945.

But! How have individual citizens shown their appreciation? In most cases not at all. Now don't get me wrong, Mr. Editor, we are not a group expecting something for nothing. Nevertheless, our plea for funds to build a memorial to the dead of two wars has met with only small success. True, we did receive around 40 contributions ranging from 2 to 200 dollars, for which we are most grateful, but that is small thanks when you consider there are over 600 heads of houses in Raymond and district.

Reading the other night in the Lethbridge Herald, I noticed a small item on the editorial page to the effect that "most Canadians would like to see more Canadians in the Korean conflict". I imagine that that is merely the opinion of an armchair strategist like H.G.L. or one of his men. My opinion is that were a poll taken amongst Canadians they would vote wholeheartedly to stay out of the Korean conflict. Lend only material aid for the time being at least. However should this bad situation become worse there is one group I am sure would not hesitate to answer the call to arms. That group is the returned men and women of the armed services of Canada.

Northern Ireland Still Produces the World's Finest Linens

The looms of Belfast, North Ireland, still produce the finest linen fabrics in the world. The fabric is still made from home-grown flax, although quantities of the raw material are also imported. Hand-painted and hand-embroidered linens from the Belfast area are bought everywhere by people who want the best that is obtainable.

This picture shows girls hand-painting Damasc linen tablecloths and serviettes in a Northern Ireland mill. Fast colors are used and so the cloth can be washed countless times without losing the delicate tinting.

PRINTING

This is a reprint article taken from the CIL Oval written by L. C. Hazelton

Letterpress and lithographic techniques advanced very little from the time of their respective discoveries until 1840. By then photography had reached the stage of practical development, so that these printing processes began to change. It was not until the turn of the century, however, that photography became a major element in all three processes. At that time photo-engraving began to take the place of woodcuts in letterpress printing, and four-color process printing appeared in rotogravure. In lithographic printing, photo-transfers were being used for lithographic plates, and in 1906 offset printing was born.

Your comments on this series would be appreciated.
